Monthly Lecture Series – Paramedics as part of the Multidisciplinary Team (MDT)

Wednesday 2 July, 6:30-7:30pm on Zoom

It's nearly time for the final talk in our 2024/25 BSMS Monthly Lecture Series! We'll be taking a short break over the summer before returning for the new academic year in the Autumn.

This month, we're joined by Adam Davis, Lecturer in Paramedic Science at the University of Brighton, to talk about the role of paramedics. Adam will discuss the skillsets involved in para-medicine, the experience paramedics bring to the Multidisciplinary Team (MDT), and training pathways.

Before joining the University of Brighton, Adam had previously served in the London Ambulance Service as a Tactical Response Paramedic – a specialist role working closely with general and specialist police units. Adam is currently serving in the British Army as a reservist, and working towards the role of Combat Medical Technician within an infantry unit.

UCAS Parents' Podcast – Getting Ahead of Clearing

The most recent episode of the UCAS Parents' Podcast unpacks the Clearing process: what it is, how it works, and why it has become a valuable route into higher education for thousands of students each year.

This podcast is created for those supporting young people who are applying to university, providing practical tools and emotional insight so that parents and carers can offer guidance with confidence.
