

Their Legacy lives on

Eighty years ago, the war did cease
A day of joy, a moment to release
The Allies' triumph, a beacon bright
As Europe's people emerged into new light

The guns fell silent, the battle's roar
Faded into cheers, and tears of more
The brave and fallen, honored still
Their sacrifice, a debt we can't fulfill

May 8th, 1945, a day of pride
A victory earned, with hearts full of stride
The world rejoiced, in freedom's name
A new dawn broke, and hope's sweet flame

Today we mark, this historic day
With gratitude, and memories at play
For those who fought, and those who gave
Their legacy lives on, forever to wave.

Katelyn H Year 10